

Reliance Communications (RCom) to invest Rs 523 crore for setting up four data centres in India

RCom will set up two new centers in Mumbai and Bengaluru and double the capacity of two others

5th November 2015

Reliance Communications (RCom) is planning to invest Rs 523 crore for expanding its data centre facilities in India by adding four more centres in the next one year.

RCom will set up two new centers in Mumbai and Bengaluru and double the capacity of two others. In total, it will add four centers in next 12 months at a cost of Rs 100 crore each.

Along with its telecom operations, RCom operates data centres in India to cater to its enterprise clients who rent the bandwidth and server of the operator for their IT usages.
